

BRYAN THE MAN FOR DEMOCRATS

Nomination Made On the Fifth Ballot.

CONVENTION STAMPEDED FOR THE NEBRASKAN.

He Gains With Each Ballot and in the End Carries the Convention By Storm—Bland Withdraws in a Graceful Letter—Day of Hot Fighting and Many Sensational Scenes.

Chicago, July 10.—William J. Bryan, the "boy orator of the Platte," and Nebraska's favorite free silver advocate, was nominated for president on the fifth ballot this afternoon.

The day opened with gold men desperate. They had prepared a manifesto, it was announced, which they had intended to submit to the convention with a demand that the situation be considered.

There was much discussion as to whether a two-thirds vote of all the states is required to nominate, or simply two-thirds of the vote given. The best authorities say the latter, and the Associated Press bulletins are based on that supposition, as the rules of the last convention which govern this, say: "Two-thirds of the vote given." There are in all 930 votes, but it is expected that a number will refrain from voting, and the non-voting gold men will really aid in nominating a silver candidate.

It was learned at 10:50 that Hill would not attend the convention today. He was said to be ill.

About the same time it was announced that Tillman would go to Bryan on the second ballot, he being for Blackburn on the first.

Delegates came in slowly. It was predicted by some prominent delegates that after Bryan and Bland had exemplified their strength on each other, there would be a break to Stevenson and Teller. It was said the Bryan vote was likely to split up after the first ballot. Bland's strength was put at 350 to 375, and Bryan's about the same.

The convention was called to order at 10:57.

While the crowd were finding their seats New York delegates sent a committee to Hill's hotel to try to get him to come to the convention.

Before balloting for president began there were more nominating speeches. Harry, of Pennsylvania, rose and was loudly cheered. He nominated Robert E. Pattison, for president.

Maddingley, of District Columbia, seconded McLean amid cheers.

Miller, of Oregon, presented the name of Penneyer for president.

Nominations for president closed at 10:07 and the roll of states was ordered called for the first ballot.

The first ballot resulted as follows: Alabama—Boies, 2. Arkansas—Bland, 16. Colorado—Passed. Con-

South Dakota—Bryan, 6; Pattison, 1; not voting, 1.

Vote of Tennessee challenged, and the roll of the state ordered. Several Tennessee votes were cast for Bryan, but under the unit rule her 24 votes go to Bland.

Utah—Bland, 6.

Virginia—Blackburn, 24.

West Virginia—Blackburn, 12.

General Bragg refused to cast the vote for Wisconsin but the unit rule was not upheld. Four of the delegation were allowed to vote for Bryan and one for Bland. There were 19 not voting.

Alaska—Bland, 6.

Arizona—Bland, 6.

District of Columbia—McLean, 5.

New Mexico—Bland, 6.

The states that had been passed were next called. Those that did not decline to vote split their votes among outside candidates, Hill getting three votes from Massachusetts. There were 189 votes not cast on the first ballot. The ballot resulted:

Bland	23
Boies	86
Matthews	37
McLean	54
Bryan	105
Blackburn	83
Pattison	35
Campbell	2
Russell	2
Penneyer	10
Tillman	17
Hill	1
Stevenson	2
Teller	8
Not voting	135

The second ballot resulted:

Bland, 261, Boies, 37, Matthews, 34, McLean, 53, Bryan, 197, Blackburn, 41, Pattison 100, Penneyer, 8, Teller, 8, Stevenson 10, Hill 1, not voting 100.

Marston, of Louisiana, whose third and nervousness made such a hit Wednesday, jumped to his feet when the result of the second ballot was announced and appealed for a revocation of the two-thirds rule. Great excitement prevailed. The chair appealed to the delegates to assist him in keeping order.

Marston's motion was declared out of order amid cheers. Marston appealed from the decision but was hissed down and the third ballot ordered.

The official statement of the third ballot showed these figures, Bland 291, Boies, 35; Matthews, 34; McLean, 54; Bryan, 219; Blackburn, 27; Pattison, 97; Stevenson, 9; Hill 1, not voting 162.

A break for Bryan came on the fourth ballot. It started with the first state, Alabama, casting 23 votes for him. Bryan gained 59 votes on the ballot, Bland lost 74, and McLean lost 7. The ballot resulted: Bland, 241; Boies, 33; Matthews, 36; McLean, 46; Bryan, 280. Cheers over the hall followed the announcement. The demonstration was tremendous. Many delegations seized guidons and congregated at the Nebraska state. Hats, handkerchiefs and flags waved, and the chair gave up trying to restore order.

The chairman announced that under the rules of the last convention two-thirds of the votes given would nominate candidates for president and vice president. The fifth ballot was ordered. Kentucky broke to Bryan with 26 votes. Michigan cast her 23 votes for Bryan. Down to and including Louisiana Bryan had 150 votes; Bland, 16. New York was called but still refused to answer. The North Carolina chairman in casting that vote called out 23 votes for the nominee of this convention, W. J. Bryan. There were loud cheers.

Including Tennessee, Bryan had 328 and Bland 53. Texas stuck to Bland with her 30 votes. Illinois broke to Bryan, and the convention went wild again, as it was seen that Bryan had been nominated.

A letter from Bland was read. It asked to have his name withdrawn at any time it should appear that some one else seemed to be the choice of the delegates. [Cheers.] Governor Stone withdrew Bland, and asked that Missouri's vote be given to Bryan. [Great cheering.]

It is said on good authority that Ohio's action in breaking to Bryan will almost certainly give the nomination for vice president to John R. McLean, of Ohio.

Before the vote was announced Bwa withdrew Boies and gave her vote to Bryan. Arkansas changed to Bryan also.

Chairman White at 3:45 declared the vote for Bryan to be unanimous, a majority voting for it. The demonstrations were renewed, all the participants seeming pretty well exhausted by previous efforts. At 4:50 the convention took a recess to 5 p. m.

HITS FROM THE SPEECHES.

Synopsis of the Session Last Evening—The Nominating Addresses.

The convention was called to order for the night session by Chairman White at 8:28 p. m. Senator Jones of Arkansas moved that the roll of the states be called for nomination of candidates for the presidency of the United States. The motion prevailed by a unanimous vote.

The clerk began with Alabama, but received no response; when Arkansas was called the chairman (that delegation rose and said that Arkansas yielded its time to Senator George G. Vest of Missouri, who presented the name of Richard Parks Bland of Missouri. David Overmeyer of Kansas seconded the nomination.

Hon. J. R. Williams of Illinois also seconded Mr. Bland's nomination.

When Mr. Williams had concluded his remarks the call of states was continued. When the State of California was called W. W. Fox said: "California desires to place in nomination Hon. Stephen M. White, a distinguished presiding officer of his convention, but under the instructions of Mr. White he positively declines to let us present his name. Therefore, you may pass us."

H. T. Lewis of Georgia, placed in nomination William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska. Klatt of North Carolina seconded the nomination. George F. Williams of Massachusetts also seconded the nomination.

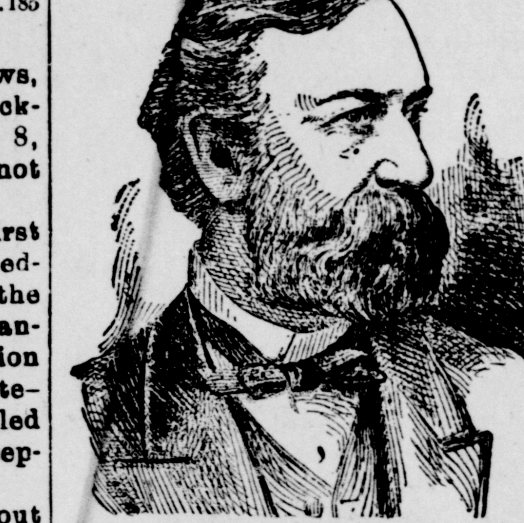

Idaho and Illinois were called, but each delegation responded that it had no name to present.

When Indiana was called Senator Turpie presented Gov. Matthews' name in an eloquent speech. Hon. Oscar A. Trippett of California seconded the nomination of Gov. Matthews.

The secretary resumed the call of states, the first then reached being the State of Iowa.

Hon. Fred White of Iowa placed the name of Horce Boies before the convention. A. Smith of Minnesota seconded the nomination of Gov. Boies.

The secretary resumed the call of states. Kansas had no name to present, but when Kentucky was reached Hon. John S. Rea presented the name of Senator Blackburn. W. W. Foote of California seconded Senator Blackburn's nomination.

WM. F. VILAS.

The secretary proceeded with the call of the roll of states. Louisiana, Maine, and Maryland had no names to present. When Massachusetts was reached Mr. Cochran, the chairman of the delegation, said: "By unanimous vote of the democrats of Massachusetts the delegation was instructed to present the name of ex-Governor Russell; but by his direction and because of the platform he declined the use of his name. Therefore we have no candidate to offer and ask that we be passed. That is the sentiment of Massachusetts, not by proxy, but by its delegation."

The roll call was continued. Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi had no candidate to present, but when Missouri was called Governor Stone announced that the state of Missouri would yield to the state of Arkansas. The chair introduced Paul Jones of Arkansas, who seconded the nomination of Richard P. Bland.

Montana was called, but had no candidate to present. When the secretary gave Nebraska its opportunity the chairman of that delegation said: "For the present the state of Nebraska passes, but at the proper time will take pleasure in casting its votes for a man whom we honor and love, William J. Bryan."

Neither Nevada nor New Hampshire had a candidate.

The secretary resumed the call of the roll at Oregon, which had no candidate to present. When Pennsylvania was next called, Mr. Harity, the chairman from that state, said: "Mr. chairman: Pennsylvania has no candidate to present at this time, but while the roll of states shall be called for the purpose of ascertaining preference as to what candidates Pennsylvania may choose she will express her wishes upon that subject."

The secretary resumed the call of the roll as follows: Rhode Island, no candidate; South Carolina, no candidate; Tennessee, no candidate.

When Texas was reached Hon. J. W. Bailey seconded the nomination of Mr. Bland. J. L. Pawlins of Utah also seconded Mr. Bland's nomination.

The State of Vermont had no candidate to present. When Virginia was called Colonel W. A. Jones of that delegation said the democratic party of Virginia, if convention assembled, requested their delegates to present the name of John W. Daniel, but at his earnest request and insistence Virginia will not present his name as a candidate to his convention.

Washington seconded the nomination of Bland of Missouri.

J. V. St. Clair of West Virginia seconded the nomination of Senator Blackburn.

The secretaries resumed the calling of the roll of states. The State of Wisconsin being called, Edward S. Bragg said: "Wisconsin cannot participate in nominating a democrat to stand upon the platform."

James Malone seconded the nomination of Senator Blackburn.

E. J. Dockery of Wisconsin endorsed William J. Bryan.

The secretary then proceeded with the reading of the roll, and Wyoming, Alaska, Louisiana, District of Columbia, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, announced that they had no candidates to present. The convention then adjourned until 10 o'clock today.

THE PLATFORM IN FULL.

Free Silver Declaration on Which Democrats Will Make Their Campaign.

Chicago, July 10.—The platform in full as adopted by the convention is as follows:

"We, the democrats of the United States, in national convention assembled, reaffirm our allegiance to those great essential principles of justice and liberty upon which our institutions are founded, and which the democratic party has advocated from Jefferson's time to our own: freedom of speech, freedom of press, freedom of conscience, the preservation of personal rights, the equality of all citizens before the law, and the faithful observance of constitutional limitations. If during all these years the democratic party has resisted the tendency of selfish interest toward the centralization of governmental power and steadfastly maintained the integrity of the dual scheme of government established by the founders of this republic of republics. Under its guidance and teachings the great principle of local self-government has found its best expression in the maintenance of the rights of the states and in the assertion of all necessary and proper powers of government to the exercise of the powers granted by the constitution of the United States.

"The constitution of the United States guarantees to every citizen the rights of civil and religious liberty. The democratic party has always been the exponent of political liberty and religious freedom, and it is its duty to affirm its devotion to these fundamental principles of the constitution.

"Recognizing that the money question is paramount to all others at this time, we invite attention to the fact that the federal constitution names silver and gold together as the money metals of the United States, and that the first coinage law passed by congress under the constitution made the silver dollar the monetary unit and admitted it to free coinage at a ratio based upon the silver unit.

"We declare that the act of 1873, demonetizing silver without the knowledge or approval of the American people, has resulted in the appreciation of gold and in a corresponding fall of the prices of commodities produced by the people (applause), a heavy increase in the burden of taxation and of all debts, public and private; the enrichment of the money-lending class at home and abroad; the prostration of industry and the impoverishment of the people.

"We are unalterably opposed to monometallism, which has locked fast the prosperity of an industrial people in the paralysis of hard times. Gold monometallism is a British policy, and its adoption has brought other nations into financial servitude to London. It is not only un-American, but it is anti-American, and it can be fastened on the United States only by stifling that spirit and love of liberty which proclaimed our political independence in 1776, and won it in the war of the revolution. We demand the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at the option of the holder of either or of any other nation.

"We demand that the standard silver dollar shall be a full legal tender, equally with gold, for all debts, public and private, and we favor such legislation as will prevent for the future the demonetization of any kind of legal tender money by private contract.

"We are opposed to the policy and practice of surrendering to the holders of the obligations of the United States the option reserved by law to the government of redeeming such obligations in either silver coin or gold coin. We are opposed to the interest-bearing bonds of the United States in time of peace, and condemn, in exchange for bonds syndicates and profits to themselves, and at federal treasury with gold to supply the policy of gold monometallism.

"Coney and President Jackson declared that this power could not be delegated to corporations or to individuals, and that the government should issue money for national banks as in violation of the constitution and we demand that all paper which is made tender for public and private debts which is receivable for dues to the United States shall be issued by the government of the United States and shall be redeemable in coin.

"We hold that the tariff duties should be levied for the purpose of revenue, such duties to be so adjusted as to operate equally throughout the country and not discriminate between class or sections and that taxation should be limited by the needs of the government, honestly and economically administered. We denounce as disturbing to business the republican threat to restore the McKinley law, which has been twice condemned by the people in national elections, and which, enacted under the false plea of protection to home industry, proved a prolific breeder of trusts and monopolies, enriched the few at the expense of the many, restricted trade and deprived the producers of the great American staples of access to their natural markets.

"Until the money question is settled we are opposed to any agitation for further changes in our tariff, except such as are necessary to make good the deficit in revenue caused by the adverse decisions of the supreme court on the income tax. But for the decision of the supreme court there would be no deficit in the revenue under the law passed by a democratic congress in strict pursuance of the uniform decision of that court for nearly 100 years, that court having in that decision overruled what had been previously confirmed by the ablest judges that have sat on that bench. We declare that it is the duty of congress to use all the constitutional powers which remain after the decision, or which may come from its reversal by the court as it may hereafter be constituted, so that the burden of taxation may be equally and impartially laid to the end that wealth may bear its due proportion of the expenses of the government.

"We hold that the most efficient way of protecting American labor is to prevent the importation of foreign pauper labor to compete with it in the home market, and that the value of the home market to our American farmers and artisans is greatly reduced by a vicious monetary system, which depresses the prices of their product below the cost of production, and thus deprives them of the means of purchasing the products of our home manufactures.

"The absorption of wealth by the few, the consolidation of our leading railway systems, and the formation of trusts and pools require a stricter control by the federal government of those arteries of commerce. We demand the enlargement of the powers of the interstate commerce commission, and such restriction and guarantees in the control of railroads as will protect the people from robbery and oppression.

"We denounce the profligate waste of money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation and the lavish appropriations of recent republican congresses, which have kept taxes high while the labor that pays them is unemployed, that the products of the people's toil are depressed in price till they no longer pay the cost of production. We demand a return to that simplicity and economy which befits a democratic government and a reduction in the number of useless offices, and the salaries of which drain the substance of the people.

"We denounce arbitrary interference by federal authorities in local affairs as a violation of the constitution of the United States and a crime against free institutions. We especially object to government by injunction as a new and highly dangerous form of oppression, by which federal judges, in contempt of the laws and the rights of citizens, become at once legislative judges and executioners. We approve the bill passed by the last session of the United States, and now pending in the house of representatives, relative to contempt in federal courts and providing for trials by jury in certain cases of contempt. No discrimination should be indulged in by the government of the United States in favor of any of its debtors.

"We approve of the refusal of the Fifty-third congress to pass the Pacific railroad funding bill, and denounce the efforts of the present republican congress to enact similar measures.

"Recognizing the just claims of deserving Union soldiers, we heartily endorse the rule of the present commissioner of pensions that no name shall be arbitrarily dropped from the pension roll, and the fact of their admission to the pension roll deemed conclusive evidence against disease and disability before enlistment.

"We favor the admission of the territories of New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma into the union as states, and we favor the early admission of all the territories having the necessary population and resources to entitle them to statehood, and, while they remain territories, we hold that the officials appointed to administer the government of any territory, together with the District of Columbia and Alaska, should be bona fide residents of the territory or district in which their duties are to be performed. The democratic party believes in home rule, and that all public lands of the United States should be appropriated to the establishment of free homes for American citizens.

"We recommend that the territory of Alaska be granted a delegate in congress, and that the general land and timber laws of the United States be extended to said territory.

"The Monroe doctrine, as originally declared and as interpreted by our leading presidents is a permanent part of the foreign policy of the United States, and must at all times be maintained.

"We extend our sympathy to the people of Cuba in their heroic struggle for liberty and independence.

"We declare it to be the unwritten law of this republic, established by custom and usage of 100 years, and sanctioned by the examples of the great and wisest of those who founded and maintained our government, that no man should be eligible for a third term to the presidential office.

"The federal government should care for and improve the Mississippi river and other great waterways of the republic, so as to secure for interior states easy and cheap transportation to tide water. Whenever any waterway of the republic is of sufficient importance to demand aid of the government such aid should be extended upon a definite plan of continuous work until a permanent improvement is secured.

General Bragg Protests But to No Avail, Chairman White Holding That the Instructions of the State Convention Did Not Cover the Withholding of the Vote—A Hot Contest

Chicago, July 10.—Wisconsin's fight against the unit rule was a feature of the critical day of the convention. Gold men stood out valiantly for the unit rule but could not stop the silver wave.

The crisis came on the first ballot about 11 o'clock.

Wisconsin declined to vote.

Hogan of Wisconsin, said the unit rule did not exist and demanded the right to vote. General Bragg declared that under the instructions the majority had absolute power in the matter. The Wisconsin state roll was called. One member of the Wisconsin delegation voted for Bryan, then another voted for Bryan.

GEN. E. S. BRAGG.

The instruction to the Wisconsin delegation from the state were read directing them to vote as a unit.

General Bragg got on his chair to explain. He made the point of order that under the instructions the state must be passed. Dockery of Wisconsin claimed the privilege to and the right to cast his vote. [Cheers.]

Dockery said that while the majority had the right to cast their vote they could not withhold it altogether and asked to have his vote recorded.

The chair decided that the instructions were, not to abstain from voting, but said that a minority could not cast the entire vote of the state. The poll showed: Declining to vote, 19; Bryan, 4; Blackburn, 1.

WORK FOR CHRIST.

Christian Endeavor Convention Opens Its Session at Washington.

Washington, July 10.—Notwithstanding discouraging weather conditions the Christian Endeavorers gathered by thousands in Washington were early astr Thursday, making their way to the many churches set apart for the sunrise services, which begin the exercises of each day. The great turn-out was a tribute to the enthusiasm and zeal of the visitors, tired as many of them were by long railway journeys. The topic at these sunrise services was "Prayer for the Convention," and in each case the meetings were led by members of the visiting organizations. These special services lasted from 6:30 to 7:15 o'clock.

The great meetings in the big tents were originally fixed for half past 9 o'clock, but there was some unavoidable delay, owing to the damage done by Wednesday night's storm. Tent Williston was abandoned entirely, for the day, at least, and the Endeavorers who had intended to be present there were admitted to the remaining tents, Washington and Endeavor. They were calculated to accommodate 10,000 people each, but were crowded even before the services began.

In Tent Washington President Francis E. Clark of Boston, Mass., presided and Percy S. Foster of Washington, acted as director of the vast chorus of singers. The delegates listened to the reading of the report of Secretary John Willis Baer and the annual address of President Francis E. Clark.

The services in Tent Williston were to have been conducted under the leadership of Rev. Dr. T. Eunis S. Hamlin of Washington, with P. B. Bilhorn of Chicago in charge of the music. Rev. Dr. S. H. Greene of this city was to have welcomed the visitors, and a proper response was to have been made by Bishop Alexander Walters of Jersey City, N. J., but, as already stated, these services were necessarily omitted, owing to the collapse of the big tent.

Evansville, July 10.—The grading of Liberty street occupied much of the common council's time Tuesday evening. Two proposals for grading were lost on tie votes. One resolution called for a grade twelve inches above the established grade from Second street to the point where this would coincide with the natural lay of the street. The other called for the established grade "as nearly as might be practicable which means a cut of twelve inches on many parts of the street. An ordinance "regulating bathing and providing for the punishment of lewd, obscene, immodest and immoral conduct" was passed unanimously. The city attorney was instructed to draw an ordinance covering such riotous demonstrations as were experienced the night of July 3. The summer exodus of Evansville folks has begun. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wilder left Tuesday for a several weeks' visit at the former's old home in western New York. Several from here left Monday on the excursion to Buffalo, N. Y. MANY MISHAPS IN SOUTH CLINTON.
One Evening Made Memorable By the Number of Accidents.

South Clinton, July 10.—It is surprising how many accidents can happen in one neighborhood on one fatal, Saturday night. Here is South Clinton's record: Wella Christman and wife nearly tipped over in attempting to drive in their own gate. Mr. Bates and horse went off the bridge just west of Christman's corners, injuring both to some extent. Mr. Thorsen and family just missed going off the same bridge, while Edward Patch, with two lady passengers, went off the bridge just west of Natesta's corners, the carriage turning bottom side up with its occupants. Fortunately the horse was fast, thus probably saving their lives. Mr. Patch received a slight bruise on his hand. His mother was badly hurt on the face, had a bone broken in her hand and wrist injured, the other lady escaping without any injury. Mr. and Mrs. Winter Northrop have returned from their bridal tour and may now be found at their home on the S. S. Northrop farm. The marriage of Miss Goolic to Mr. Thorsen at the Norwegian Lutheran church was the event of last week. Mr. Roth, brother and family visited him not long ago. Mrs. E. L. Benedict left for Chicago Monday morning en route for Washington, the Y. P. S. C. E. convention and points in Virginia. Archie Westby visited at the homes of Mr. Benedict and Mr. Williams, recently. Mrs. Selberg opened her home to the Norwegian Ladies' Sewing society, of Beloit, on Thursday last, some fifty or more being in attendance.

Class Picnic at Delavan

South Turtle, July 10.—Mrs. Crockett and Mina and Frank started for Pecatonica overland Tuesday morning, for a few days' visit with Mrs. Crockett's parents. Miss Hattie Reimer, our Clinton high school student, went to Delavan lake with her class last week Wednesday. Mrs. D. G. Smith's father is stopping with her for several days. Our very newest bicycle rider is Charles Gault, who took part in the races at Beloit. Orin Isham may now be found at Woodward's drug store. Miss Rosetta Blaser worshipped at Shopiere Sunday and stopped with her friend, Miss Curtiss. Levi Christman has been selling some fine blueberries which came from his brother's in the northern part of the state. Calvin Johnson and father come this way quite often nowadays and go home laden with raspberries. Mrs. Hammond, who has been so poorly, is recovering slowly. Arthur Reimer spent his Fourth in Beloit, his parents taking in the fireworks in the evening.

Nervous

People wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and

Nervous Dyspepsia. The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood feeding the nerves on refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. Opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich blood, gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

TWO MEN FROM HERE IN THE HIGH TWELVE

PRIVATES GAGE AND ROOT SHOOT WELL.

Their Scores Serve to Keep Up the Reputation of Company A.—Another Cow Bell Captured In a Light Infantry Smoke Stack—Crisp Camp Gossip.

Camp Lucius, Fairchild, July 9.—Private Root and Private Gage of Janesville, are two in the high twelve on the rifle range, Root having made a score of 191 and Gage 215.

A number of lady visitors were on the grounds today.

Miss Lombard and Miss Syke of Tomah, took supper with Company A. tonight, the guests of Lieutenant Baldwin.

Lieutenant Baldwin is officer of the pit today.

The governor and his staff arrived on the grounds this afternoon, tomorrow being governor's day.

"Who stole Reubens Glue's socks?" is the camp question tonight.

A boxing match on the company street before supper afforded considerable sport.

Another cow bell was captured last night. It was found in the smoke stack of the mess kitchen of Company A. Of course every man is innocent of who put it there or who was pulling the string.

Corporal Fred Cook, who was taken sick last night is able to be around tonight.

Speaking about the comforts of the camp, it is but fair that the mosquito should receive a word of mention. They are a large share of the population, and in size are enormous, almost as large as the stories some tell of them. But it is nothing unusual to find them during the night shoes, extra clothing and chairs have been carried away by them. One man says that they even carried his bed out of his tent, but this is scarcely credited by the company.

The band concerts each evening are very enjoyable.

All have a word of praise for good natured Quartermaster Ed. Miller. Each meal is well prepared, and is not wanting in quality or quantity. One private informed your correspondent tonight, that he was very nearly under the influence of "bottled goods."

The Gazette is eagerly looked for, each day by the men. No place like home, or thing like news from home.

THE OVERFLOW OF LOCAL NEWS.

Hide and Seek.

pastime in which all the cats do is hide and seek behind the pillows of a bed or sofa. In the drawing room there are some old-fashioned lions set upright which have been playground of generations of pets; mothers begin by playing with their kittens, the kittens keep it up together and teach it to younger sets. The point of the game is which shall see the other first and surprise her by a cuff on the nose, which stands for "I spy." When to play it is simple enough, but when there are three or four one always remains outside the cushions to seek and the degrees the little pink-nosed white cats peep between the cushions with the inimitable and provocative expressions of kittens at play and the seeker surprised by a tap. If she be on the part the hider sometimes vanishes and sometimes they try which can get with the other's guard and give the first back. Miss was particularly fond of hide and seek and established a mode of playing it with us while we were at dinner; she would hide on the window sill behind the long winter curtains which are dropped in the evening and would peep out at one side or between them and mew, popping back again as called, "I see you," she never tired of this slipping unseen from window to window to vary the surprise until she had more than enough of it.—Temple Bar.

Artificial Scenting of Flowers.

Flowers that have lost something of their perfume, says London Public Opinion, are now scented artificially by watering them with an alcohol solution of essence, using a little glycerine to fix the odor. Thus for violets the liquid is composed of 100 grams of glycerine and 10 grams of essence of violet. In many places, while scented violets are comparatively rare, the unscented kinds grow wild in great profusion. These are now bought up in large quantities, scented artificially and put into the market in advantageous competition with the perfumed violets grown by the horticulturists. Cut flowers which have wilted from time or transportation are revived by being plunged into a weak solution of sal ammoniac. Flowers which have little or no scent are also perfumed for sale by being put into a box with ice and then saturated with a current of carbonic acid charged with perfume.

Truant School for New York.

New York is to enjoy a novelty in the shape of a truant school. The officials are making a study of the nonattendances with a view of separating the careless or intermittent truants from the habitual or incorrigible. The latter will be consigned to the truant school for a length of time dependent upon previous record and behavior in the school. The appointments of the school will include dormitories, with beds and bedding; a kitchen, with the necessary appointments; bath-rooms, stationary sinks, towels, dishes and the fitting of a private dining-room for the use of superintendents and teachers, with accommodations for the janitor. Provision must also be made to secure the permanence of the pupils.

The Strength of Ice.

The following estimate of the strength of ice is given in Haswell's "Engineers' and Mechanics' Pocket-Book." "Ice two inches thick will bear twenty, four inches thick will bear thirty, six inches thick will sustain thirty-five, eight inches thick will bear forty pounds to the square foot.

HOT WEATHER DYSPEPSIA.

Thousands Suffer From It at This Season of the Year.

Hot weather dyspepsia may be recognized by the following symptoms: Depression of spirits, heaviness and pain in the stomach after meals, loss of flesh and appetite, no desire for food, bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning, wind in stomach and bowels, irritable disposition, nervous weakness, weariness, costiveness, headache, palpitation, heartburn. It is a mistake to treat such troubles with "tonics," "blood purifiers," "cathartics," "pills," because the whole trouble is in the stomach. It is indigestion or dyspepsia and nothing else.

All these symptoms rapidly disappear when the stomach is relieved, strengthened, and cleansed by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They should be taken after meals and a few carried in the pocket to be used whenever any pain or distress is felt in the stomach. They are prepared only for stomach troubles. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are endorsed by such physicians as Dr. Harlandson, Dr. Jennison, and Dr. Mayer, because they contain the natural digestive acids and fruit essences which when taken into the stomach cause the prompt digestion of the food before it has time to ferment and sour, which is the cause of the distress.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are pleasant to take and unequalled for invalids, children and every person afflicted with imperfect digestion. It is safe to say they will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

Nearly all the druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized packages at 50 cents. A book on stomach troubles and thousands of testimonials sent free by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

VILLAGE IMPROVEMENT.

Organization and Carrying Out a Movement for the Betterment of Towns.

John Gilmer Speed writes upon how to organize and conduct a Village Improvement Society in Ladies' Home Journal. He prefaces his paper with the assertion that the "future prosperity of the country village depends, in a great measure, upon its suitability for the summer residence of those who prefer, at that season, to leave the hot and crowded cities," and argues further that "a Village Improvement Society should be a pure democracy, and within its membership it should embrace every man and woman of good repute in the neighborhood, and besides this there should be established an auxiliary league of children. This league should be asked, and urged, and instructed to assist the main society. Such societies are usually supported by fees and dues. This is very well in a village where the majority of the people are quite prosperous and usually have a store of ready money at their disposal. But even in such places I prefer the method of supporting the society by purely voluntary subscriptions of money, labor and material. Labor is just as good as money, and is given much more freely by all save those who are rich."

After canvassing the matter Mr. Speed suggests a public meeting, to be addressed by some one familiar with the details of the work, preceding preliminary organization, and the adoption of a constitution. Permanent officers and committees should be named at the first meeting, and preceding the second one the first labor day should be observed. "On that day all the men and teams in the village should congregate to work under the direction of the executive committee, and the ladies of the society should provide a picnic luncheon for the workers that day. In some untidy villages the whole of the first labor day might be given to cleaning up; in others the sidewalks might be put in better order, or pieces of new sidewalk constructed; in nearly every village it would be a good thing to put the grounds and fences of the public schoolhouse in order. But there are always very obvious needs everywhere before the advent of the village improver. But what is done that day should be done with some thoroughness, and the noonday luncheon is apt to invest the day with some of the characteristics of a festival. What is done will be discussed in every house of the village, and the achievements will inspire confidence or provoke criticism."

WASHINGTON'S MARRIED LIFE.

Mrs. Washington's Mother Sees Contradiction to the Harmony.

"There is every reason to believe that Washington's married life was one of increasing happiness and satisfaction," writes General A. W. Greely, U. S. A., in Ladies' Home Journal. "Unfortunately his letters, to his wife were destroyed by her. But there are sufficient allusions in his general correspondence to indicate that they grew together with declining years, and that both husband and wife showed that consideration toward, and respect for, each other which are the soundest guarantees of marital happiness. Since circumstances did not permit frequent visits of his wife to her relatives we find Washington inviting her mother home to come to Mount Vernon as his home. It does not appear that this introduction added to the harmony of the household, or if it did the admission of other women, relatives of husband and wife, did not. In this respect Washington, writing later about his niece living at Mount Vernon, speaks of his love for her, but he says: 'I will never again have two women in my house when I am there myself.' Mrs. Washington proved an unfailing support to her husband in camp or court, in peace or war, and Washington had her happiness and comfort always at heart. His field service was irksome only as entailing constant uneasiness on the part of his wife. Of the many instances of his tender solicitude for her uncertain health there is none more touching than that connected with his fatal illness. Attacked suddenly and seriously after midnight Washington's malady was at least hastened by his unwillingness that his wife should incur the risk of a cold by rising during the bitter winter night to relieve his suffering."

The Bicycle Blaze.

The destruction of 1,700 bicycles in Boston by fire the other day is a great loss to the world, but happily one that is soon repaired. If 17,000,000 bicycles had been suddenly wiped out they would hardly have been missed in this whirling age in which we live. But the imagination grows pale, halts, stumbles and falls dead in an attempt to picture the utter helplessness of society if all the bicycles were to be destroyed. Trade and commerce would be paralyzed, pleasure would be turned to pain, the heavens would roll together as a scroll and chaos and old night would come again. The bicycle is here and here must it remain.—New York Advertiser.

THEY KNOW BETTER.

Keen observers in the Chicago convention say there is a possibility that Bland, who is a dull-witted but honest man, believes free silver would help the people. The great majority of the silver leaders, however, know better, and are to be listed as the "Hungry Joes" of politics. For their own selfish purposes they are playing a big confidence game on the gullible and ignorant of the west and south. How they are doing it is shown by the fact that in several Arkansas villages "committees have been appointed to receive the silver coin which the free silver president supposed to be sure of election in November is expected to distribute." This is one of the meanings attached to free silver by some of its advocates. But this is not the only shape which the silver folly takes. From another source we learn that free coinage at 16 to 1 is held by some persons to mean that for every dollar of gold which the government coins it must coin seven dollars in silver. This ought to bring the "cheap money" which the country is supposed to be suffering for.

Something can be said in favor of this Arkansas view. Free silver, unless it means free distribution of silver, is a mockery. If a person can not get his hands on silver unless he gives something for it—labor or property of some sort—how is it going to help him? He can get silver now under the latter conditions, as well as gold, greenbacks and any other sort of money he asks for, and if there is to be no change in the procedure it is very hard for the 16 to 1 man to see what this free silver business is here for. He is told that gold is the "aristocrat's coin," while silver is the "poor man's money," but if the poor man could not get silver under the presidency of Bland except on the terms that he gets it under Cleveland and that he will get it under McKinley, he has a right to ask himself why he is shouting for free silver.

The co-operative idea seems to be carried to an extreme by the twenty-six Kansas women who are said to be engaged in writing one novel. The dialogue ought at least to be lively.

Senator Teller sacrificed his lifelong views on the tariff and yet the democratic convention would not nominate him. The presidential fever makes men do strange things.

It is a pity Mr. Cleveland left Washington before the Christian Endeavors got there. Some of them might have shown him how to endeavor to bear his political disappointments.

To have nominated a ticket that would have been really representative of the controlling element in the convention the democrats should have named Tillman and Altgeld.

Having been buccooed by the democratic party's tariff promises, the voters can be depended upon to turn a deaf ear to its financial promises.

How glad Gorman, Watterson and other members of the guard must be that they had sense enough to stay away from the Chicago convention.

Poor old Miss Democracy! Although it is leap year, she didn't have any choice. Populism got the upper hand of her early in the wooing.

The democrats seem to prefer free silver to Cleveland. Men who pose as better than their party are in discouragingly poor repute just now.

The 16 to 1 business is also making trouble at the summer resorts. Sixteen girls to one man is not considered a fair ratio.

Not a few people believe that successful authorship depends more upon shrewd advertising than upon good writing.

To be killed by the populists is a inglorious an ending as its worst enemy could have wished for the democratic party.

The Chicago convention headed the democratic party for oblivion; the voters will do the rest, next November.

The next time Senator Hill attempts to control a populist convention it will grow a beard as the first step.

When Tammany democrats shed tears for national democracy the burial isn't far off.

BOYCOTT DECLARED OFF.

Wabash Officials and Railway Telegraphers Settle Differences.

Peoria, Ill., July 10.—The difficulty between the Wabash railroad and the Order of Railway Telegraphers has been adjusted, and the boycott, existing since May 1, has been declared off. It was proclaimed because the Wabash, it was charged, discriminated against members of the order in employing telegraphers and making promotions. Superintendent Kinsman of Decatur, after a lengthy interview with Grand Chief Powell yesterday, agreed that members of the order shall be employed and promoted without discrimination. It is stated by one of the grand officers of the order of telegraphers that the form of application used by the Wabash contains the question: "Are you a member of any labor organization?"

Lemen Brothers Came Here In Spite
Of the Poor Standing Janesville
Has in the "Circus Manager's Bradstreet" and They Regret Their Rashness.

Lemen Brothers circus left Janesville last evening much the worse financially and with a bad opinion of the town. When the route was first mapped out it was very doubtful whether the Bower City would be included or not, but there was no easy way of getting around it. The circus men did not come blindly, however. The map that every circus carries has Janesville marked "B 13; G. P. 10." The index in the ticket seller's safe, explains these marks as follows:

B. 13—Best show in the country couldn't pay for oats for the elephant here. Town full of wise guys who quit going to circuses when Van Amburgh died.

G. P. 10—Graters shall men and short change artists might as well fold their wings. The police here are very handy at "getting next" to smooth folks, and the lower floor of the jail is damp and disagreeable.

With no opening for profit in either direction there wasn't much chance for a big day.

The show managers acted accordingly.

They put up only half their seats and they had seats left even then.

The show as a whole was very fair—much ahead of the street parade. Little Edna Lemen's somersault on a horse was cheered loudly and there were other good features. The performance at the ticket wagon, however, was lacking in spirit and the show will not come again soon.

The only circus follower arrested during the day was Frank Jones, of Madison, who was found by Chief Acheson in an east side saloon, making advances to some unsophisticated strangers.

DEATH'S DAILY ROLL CALL

Mrs. Lydia Hill.

Mrs. Lydia Hill, who died in Milton Junction, July 2, was born in Woodstock, Vt., in 1813. In early life she was married to Roswell Hill who was born in Hartland, Vt. Immediately after their marriage they came to Wisconsin to battle with the difficulties of a western life, this country then being wild and sparsely inhabited. They first settled near Waukesha, where they lived but a few years, moving from there to Newcastle for a brief stay. From Newcastle they moved to Milton Junction where they lived till seven years ago, when Mr. Hill died leaving the wife to fight life's battles single-handed. Since the death of her husband Mrs. Hill has been more or less feeble in health. For the past three years she has been entirely helpless.

SONNET.

Ife baffled winter, at fair spring's first nod,
His weakened forces northward home hath led,
While remnant drifts about our path are spread,
The crocus bursts the bondage of the sod,
And, lo, where late among the snow we trod,
The blossom sunward lifts its dainty head,
White, purple, gold, along the garden bed,
To catch the first warm glances of its god.
Thus, in some gloomy season of the heart,
When sorrow all our joy hath overspread
And every voice seems but to make us sad,
New hopes arise ere pain can all depart;
We fling aside the discontent and dread
And go our way with faces bright and glad.
—Mortimer Mansell in Chambers' Journal.

"MY COUSIN AMY."

Here is a story that Mr. Van Rensselaer Crossgrain told to a few of his cronies at the club the other evening after the final brandy and soda. They never before suspected him of any sentimental weakness, but now they have their doubts about it. He did soften in the telling of it, even if when he had finished he resumed his natural manner and swore at the waiter for showing a natural desire to clean up for the evening and go, perhaps, to his sweetheart. Here's his story:

"I have known my cousin Amy since the days when she was 5 and I was 15, and that was many years ago. Still I never during all that time suspected the truth, and I never knew it till it was too late. Then I learned what might have been, and as I thought the simple story over, it occurred to me it might in its moral prove useful to other youngsters as blind as I was and have been. Fortune never knocks twice at a man's door. Few of us know our caller when she visits us and are generally disposed to ignore her summons, taking her for a creditor or a bore. The only way is to learn from the experience of our elders."

"Young folks think that old folks are fools, old folks know that young folks are. Thus goes the old proverb the sanity of which never impresses one till he has crossed 30. But let me tell you the story of my cousin Amy."

"To begin with, she was the sweetest girl that ever was or will be. And she is so now. But that is only the complement of this story. Well, Amy was, is and will be the sweetest girl in the world. Still I never loved her—except as a cousin and as a sweet girl, the sweetest I ever have seen or shall see. From now on—I don't know, I can't tell—but you are not interested in my future or Amy's, so let's get back to the story. Well, then, I have known my cousin Amy since she was 5 years old. Even then she had an infinite sweetness about her which was not overshadowed even by the fullness of life and spirits which was her second best charm."

"Even at the age when young maids of 5 do not live long in the thoughts of youths I was fond of Amy. She was companionable even then, and though at times noisy and persistent, she infused her grace even into those disagreeable qualities and made them half lovable. This was Amy at the age of 5. Well you know how a youth changes after 17. How he becomes then one thing or the other. Good or bad, studious or careless, serious or trifling. During the next ten years I saw Amy only now and then. She was changing and developing also, but I paid little attention to her growth. I was chasing after the false gods whose worship is so attractive to the young man. Amy was only a child to me at my advanced years, and while family connections kept me in frequent contact with her, I thought of my old young friend only as a rather awkward, shy girl of 15, while I was rejoicing in the full manhood and unlimited experience and wisdom of 25."

"When I saw her in those days I paid little attention to her. There was still the old sweetness there, the power of loving, the simple but strong attractiveness, but I was busy with my false gods and tinsel goddesses. You men of 30, you know where you worshiped then, and you know how devout you were in your worship and how the fallacy and hollowness of your creed never strike you till you have had five or ten years of it, and how then you learn your god is stuffed with the dirtiest kind of sawdust and the worship stinks in your nostrils. Well, I passed through that stage. I went the rounds and rejoiced in the designation of a rounder. No hog wallowed in his filth more luxuriously than I, and it took me ten long years to learn that there was not and never can be anything in dissipation, that alcoholically stimulated spirits and the purchased affections of women are the bitterest mockeries on God's earth. They are hell's best counterfeits, but rank counterfeits they are, and only the so called keen eyes of youth are deceived by them."

"All this has a bearing on my story of Amy, because, thank God, after a while my eyes were opened and I saw the folly of my life. And, as when a man has thrown the bloom and flower of his youth in the gutters of dissipation he takes the faded remnants back to the highway, so I, seeing I had been giving much for nothing, bethought myself that perhaps the ways of decent people were wiser and I sought to tread them. Society does not condemn the male sinner. His social position is thrown like a cloak over his life and virtuous mothers who know from worldly husbands the story of his escapades are glad to show him their jewels in the way of marriageable daughters—that is, if he may be eligible."

"Well, I was rich and eligible. I easily worked my way back into the society I had quit for what is styled Bohemia. I saw young women far more sweet and attractive than those who shine at public balls, late suppers and fancy resorts. And among them shone conspicuously my cousin Amy. I had never entirely given up her society, but of late years I had seen less and less of her. It seemed to me her manner had changed. She was now a woman of the world, with her three crowded seasons behind her. New York, Newport, London and the had been her stamping ground."

even her infinite sweetness—pardon the repetition of the word, but it fitted her—was partially covered, though not effaced by the manner of the woman of 22 years. I had not no and this, or at any rate dwelt upon it in our few meetings in the meantime."

"Amy was still and had ceased to be fond of me as an old and playmate, for in the far away days we had even played together as children will. But I could never regain the old footing. After a while she let me get a little closer, and then I thought I noticed sometimes a reticence something like the old camaraderie. Was I falling in love with Amy? I did not say so. Then one day I heard something and the next day she told me something herself."

"I knew the fellow and liked him. He was all that a man should be, and if any man could claim such a standing he was worthy of Amy. Still, for a moment I hated him, and could I have heard of his disgrace I would have rejoiced; I hardly knew why, but I felt why. But Amy was very happy, so happy that I forgave him, and she softened more toward me."

"This is all of my story. It's enough for it's a story of what was missed and of fortune turned away from the door at the first and last call. How do I know? I will tell you. Amy was to be married after Easter. During Lent I passed a few days at her father's place on the Hudson. She was so happy and grateful to this old world for her happiness that she opened all her heart to me and told me her hopes and plans. So selfish is entire happiness. If she had confined herself to her future I might still have been fairly happy even in her and his happiness. But in the fullness of her spirits Amy lapsed into reminiscence."

"During one of our close and cordial conversations I noticed a look on her expressive face, a look half quizzical, half amused, and then she turned to me and smiled. Blushed? No. But when she told me this story I left her for a moment saying I thought I would smoke a cigar, though I forgot to light it when I got on the veranda."

"I had spoken of her happiness, and without thinking what I was saying I asked her familiarly:

"Amy, is that lucky fellow the first or are you giving him only the remnants of affection a pretty girl has left after three years of society? She laughed gayly and without embarrassment. 'Yes and no,' she answered. 'I have met no man in society I consider his equal in any way, and he has all the affection I possess, but I must make a confession to you, and I can do so safely now. I was in love once before, and oh, how in love I was. It was a foolish affair,' she said smiling, 'but at the time I was terribly in earnest. I have quite recovered, so I can tell you all about it. Do you remember some years ago when you were still quite respectable and used to come and take tea with us every Sunday evening?'"

"Of course I do," I answered rather testily.

"Well, you never knew I was in love then, did you?"

"Why no, certainly not, I never thought of it. You were a child," I replied.

"I was 15," she said, "and I was very much in love, and with you, you silly goose. You never knew it, you paid no attention to me, but would talk to father or some of the guests, and I would sit up and drink in your words and think them wisdom. Why, I remember one evening when I was sent up to bed at 9 o'clock I came back after the maid was gone and sat at the head of the stairs where I could hear you speaking. Then my feelings got the better of me and I began to cry. Mamma heard me, but you didn't, and she came after me and sent me back to bed, besides giving me a good lecturing."

"And Amy laughed heartily and I thought with unnecessary gayety. And so I made a fool of myself. In a moment I felt that my cousin Amy was the one woman in the world for me and that she had really always been. (And she will always be.)"

"And I said to her, 'Amy, you are telling me of years ago, may I tell you something of the present time?' But she understood me, and Amy was loyal. For a moment only she seemed startled and drew a long breath. Then she smiled again."

"No, no!" she said with her old gayety, "when your story is as old as mine, you may tell it to me if you like, but the exchange is not fair now." Which I thought was a poor way out of it, and I told her so.

"Still, when I left her and went out upon the veranda to smoke, I forgot to light my cigar."—New York Sun.

Nerves and Skyscrapers.

A nervous condition bordering on prostration, to which the doctors have not as yet given a name, has lately been observed to affect persons who work many hours a day high up in the modern skyscrapers. The ailment resembles nervous prostration, except in the principal symptom, which is a condition of intense restlessness and, as one of the victims to the new complaint expressed it, "a singular desire to scream or to get down to the earth quickly."

A sensation of relief is noticeable when the patient is taken to grass, so to speak, which leads some physicians to the belief that the change in the rarity of the air, slight as it is, has a peculiar effect upon certain very sensitive organizations. Others think that the constant trips in the elevators cause a slight disarrangement of the nerve centers, which brings on the condition referred to. In any case, there is no doubt that a new ailment has come among us with the advent of the skyscraper.—New York Journal.

YOUR PALATE IS YOUR STOMACH'S CONSCIENCE.

YOUR STOMACH KNOWS WHAT IS GOOD FOR YOU.

Thin people are thin because the food they eat is not absorbed. Reasons, either wrong food, or right food undigested.

Fat, oils and grease will not make any one fat. This is because they are indigestible. Thin people find it hard to digest their food. Fatty foods make it still harder.

Have you ever noticed that almost without exception, thin, pale, dyspeptic, anemic people have an aversion to fat? This is of itself proof enough that such foods are bad for them.

Let your palate tell you what to eat. Nature makes very few mistakes and we should listen to what she says.

Thin people may become fatter, and dyspeptics more comfortable by taking the Shaker Digestive Cordial. It agrees with the weakest stomach. It helps the weak stomach digest other food. It is fattening and invigorating in itself, for it contains artificially digested food.

The Mount Lebanon Shakers have made a great many interesting discoveries within the past hundred years, but none more important than this ingenious cure for all diseases which are traceable to faulty digestion. A single 10 cent bottle will tell whether it is adapted to your case, and can be had through any druggist.

BODICES AND SKIRTS.

Full Waist—The Jacket Always Becoming to Young People.

Corsages of mousseline de sole are very full, very much draped and gathered and very much trimmed, but they are all made on a fitted lining as a foundation, as are the puffed and draped sleeves. Skirts all sheer materials are likewise gathered at the waist to a plain godet skirt of silk.

For young girls and young women the jacket is always in favor, and it will receive new life when sleeves complete the collapse which is now well under way. In spite of the attempt to force the loose sack upon womankind in general, they remain faithful to the close jacket, tight behind and fitted or straight in front, which always looks neat and trim. No uglier garment was ever invented, with the exception of pantalets, than the short, loose sack, which conceals the figure and has no compensating grace or beauty.

Although sleeves themselves have so decidedly diminished a great deal of broad and bouffant trimming is used about the shoulders. Large collars, revers and epaulettes are the height of fashion, and bows and drapery of all sorts finish the top of the plain sleeve.

Trimmed skirts are not being accepted with enthusiasm. Taste must be improving, on the whole, for several retrogressive edicts of fashion makers have been disregarded during the past few years and the well dressed public has in each case clung to the really preferable style. There is no doubt that the plain skirt, whether scant or full, is more becoming to the figure than one which is cut up into sections by ornamentation. The bodice offers much more excuse for trimming than does the skirt and carries it much better.

Buckles are being used for dress decoration. An illustration is given of a glaze taffeta bodice upon which they are employed. The back is gathered at the waist; the front is covered with a plastron of broche silk gauze, draped at the side by two buckles. The plain sleeves of taffeta are draped at the wrist under a buckle and have a draped puff of gauze at the top similarly secured. The collar and belt are of taffeta and the wrist and collar are edged with lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

CRUEL INSINUATION.

Tin Soldier—It's now five years since I first drew my sword.
Fresh Girl—Where was it? At a raffie?—N. Y. Evening World.

Better Be Prepared.

When'er two evils may befall,
The less all wise men choose;
'Tis wrong to go to war at all,
But worse to go and lose.
—Washington Star.

Bachelors, Rejoice.

First Buglar—Hello, Jim! Why, you look as if you had been in a railway accident since I saw you last. What's wrong?

Second Buglar—I got into a house where the woman was waitin' up for her husband, and she mistook me for him.—Newark (N. J.) Standard.

In Chicago's Quick Divorce Haven.

Hubby—But why do you insist on a divorce? We seem to agree.

Wife—Yes, but I need a new trousseau badly. This one is nearly two months old already.

Hubby (resignedly)—Very well, I'll send up the decree with the leg of mutton. Good-by, dear!—Town Topics.

Marguerite the Slangy.

She held a daisy in her hand
And plucked its petals one by one;
As fair a picture was she then
As e'er was shone on by the sun.
The rude young man who, unawares,
Approached her nearly had a fit
To hear her rose-leaf lips enunciate:
"He loves me—loves me, n't."—Indianapolis Journal.

His Characteristics.

Visitor—Who do you take after, Bobby, your papa or mamma?

Bobby Jones—That depends; when Aunt Sarah is here ma says I take after her folks, and when Uncle Silas Jones is here ma says I'm a regular Jones. They're both r-r-rich!—Judge.

More Bad Luck.

Mr. Winks (looking over the paper)—Cheap. Drugg & Co. are selling all sorts of patent medicines at half price.

Mrs. Winks—Just our luck. There isn't anything the matter with any of us.—N. Y. Weekly.

Willing to Forget.

"Aren't you the same beggar that I gave half a pie to last week?"

"I guess I am, mum; but I'm willin' to let bygones be bygones. It ain't in my heart to bear no malice."—Indianapolis Tribune.

Stupid Man.

"Isabel, I don't see why you have to spend two days in one week at the same bargain counter."

"Why, it takes one day to get bargains and the next day to exchange them."—Chicago Record.

Different.

Giggs—When Ethel marries the count will her father give her away?

Killson—Give her? Well, I guess not. He has to pay the count a cool million to take her.—N. Y. World.

Good Place to Swear Off.

Biffers—How did you come to stop smoking?

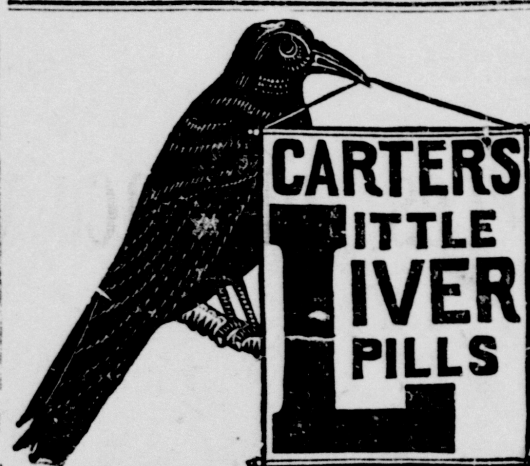

Whiffers—Got stuck for six weeks in a small village where there was only one cigar store.—N. Y. Weekly.

We are anxious to do a little good in this world and can think of no pleasanter or better way to do it than by recommending One Minute Cough Cure as a preventive of pneumonia, consumption and other serious liver troubles that follow neglected colds. C. D. Stevens.

Persons who have a coughing spell every night, on account of a tickling sensation in the throat, may overcome it at once by a dose of One Minute Cough Cure. C. D. Stevens.

A Critic.

Mrs. Cashman—Did you see the painting Mr. Solidrock bought—a genuine Rubens?

Mr. Cashman—I saw it. It isn't genuine.

Mrs. Cashman—Do you claim to be a judge?

Mr. Cashman—I claim to be a judge of anything Solidrocks buys in that line. He gets stuck every time.—Brooklyn Life.

Expensive Courting.

"I guess, ma," said Johnnie Chaffie at the breakfast table, "that Mr. Hostetter McGinnis finds it rather expensive calling on our Fannie."

"What do you mean by that, young man?" said his sister, with asperity.

"I don't mean nothin'," replied Johnnie, doggedly, "only I heard him tell you in the hall last night that every time he called he broke the crystal of his watch."—Texas Sifter.

Making the Best of It.

This hole growing large in my trousers is very unpleasant to see.
But I'm glad it is not in my pocket—
It's better I think in the knee.
—Brooklyn Eagle.

Before the finished fruit come bud and blossom. Bud grows into blossom and blossom into fruit. And so girlhood merges into womanhood and the woman into motherhood.

The two most critical times in a woman's life are the times which make the girl a woman and the woman a mother. At these times, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is of incalculable value. It strengthens and invigorates the organs distinctly feminine, promotes regularity of the functions, allays irritation and inflammation, checks unnatural, exhausting drains, and puts the whole delicate organism into perfect condition. Almost all the ills of womankind are traceable to some form of what is known as "female complaint." There are not three cases in a hundred of woman's peculiar diseases that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will not cure.
